

WDA partners SMU on skills qualification

THE Singapore Workforce Development Agency has appointed the Singapore Management University as its first university partner in offering the Singapore Workforce Skills Qualifications human resources, leadership and people management. Those in leadership and people management start in Q1 next year.