

FACES THAT WILL GO PLACES

With Audi Fashion Festival, Blueprint and Men's Fashion Week offering a bumper crop of runway opportunities for models here, ROHAIZATUL AZHAR picks 10 new Singapore faces with the most potential

AARON NG, 23
From Now Models

Velvet blazer, black sweater, grey woollen trousers and black scarf, all from Gucci

The 1.88m-tall hunk started modelling in January and has already landed the cover gig for a local men's fashion magazine.

The undergraduate of Singapore Management University also walked for Spencer Hart, Richard Chai and MGM at this year's Men's Fashion Week.

He is the eldest of three children.

What is the biggest challenge you've faced as a model?

I suppose my biggest challenge is to stand out and differentiate myself from the other models. In order to clinch the job and be remembered, I feel it is important to have a unique characteristic that people will remember. Mine are a strong jawline and sharp features.

What is the biggest misconception about modelling?

I think most people think modelling is easy as long as you have good looks. The actual show is short but what most people don't see is the preparation time and effort it takes to put on a great show.