BY PR NEWSWIRE

PARKER FORD, Pa., Oct. 6, 2014 /PRNewswire/ -- The most noteworthy law school buildings around the world are featured in a new article launched by Best Choice Schools. The online piece highlights "The 50 Most Impressive Law School Buildings in the World" with criteria that include architectural excellence, design and functionality. Best Choice Schools provides insightful information about affordable degree programs, and the new article provides insight for users who are researching law degrees and schools.

"These structures are setting the bar not only in the world of law schools, but also in the world of college and university buildings in general," said editor Reese Brady.

Law school buildings throughout history have inspired respect and reverence for the study of law, and some on the list are well over 100 years old. One is the University of Virginia School of Law, which was founded in 1819 by Thomas Jefferson. Other buildings on the list project bold and innovative designs, such as the Singapore Management University School of Law, which is made of multiple tiers of glass and live greenery. Several law schools were featured for energy efficiency and overall sustainability. One such building is the Law Court Building at University of Hertfordshire in the U.K., which boasts a rainwater harvesting system and a BREEAM Excellent rating.
