

SLS team wins Tata Crucible-2013

Symbiosis Law School (SLS), Pune, clinched the international title while the Institute of Management Technology (IMT), Ghaziabad, won the national title of the 'Tata Crucible Campus Quiz 2013' (TCCQ-2013) at the finals recently concluded at the Taj Lands End in Mumbai.

Culminating its journey through the United Kingdom, Singapore and 30 Indian cities, the TCCQ-2013 was a spectacular show of intellect and quizzing. Sachin Ravi and Nikhil Joy from Symbiosis Law School were the second team to qualify for the international championship of the TCCQ 2013. Participating teams from the UK and Singapore included University of Strathclyde, University of Manchester (UK), Singapore Management University and National University of Singapore. At the end of a nail-biting challenge, Ravi and Joy triumphed over their competitors winning the TCCQ-2013 trophy.

The SLS has been twice been national finalists at the TCCQ. Thrilled with the international title victory, Ravi said, "It is a great feeling to finish my five-year course with a win like this. I have full faith in Joy to continue this winning streak in the forthcoming crucible seasons." Log on to www.tatacrucible.com to participate in the Crucible mock prelims and the weekly Tata Crucible online contest.