The Long Beach State sailing team left for China on July 11 to compete against some of the best teams the region had to offer including Xiamen University, Singapore Management University, and about a dozen other teams in the first Pan Pacific Collegiate Regatta.

Long Beach State had applied for their place in the regatta in May and was accepted as the sole representative from the United States. Once accepted, the team spent many hours fundraising for this historic event and it paid off as Long Beach dominated the 12 mile point-to-point race and multiple buoy races.
