

Innovation for Financial Services

"Innovation for Financial Services" is a series of specialised international events for people working with innovation in the financial services sector. The aim is to visit prime financial services centres across the world, building connections between financial services professionals and academics and enabling them to present and discuss the latest developments relating to innovations for, and within, the financial services sector.

The 2013 Innovation for Financial Services Conference will take place in Singapore on 24 & 25 October 2013. Hosted by Singapore Management University (SMU), this Conference includes various keynote speeches, parallel sessions, discussion panels, and interactive sessions on innovation for financial services, both from a practitioner and an academic point of view. It will provide excellent opportunities to discuss and share experiences with academics, practitioners and policymakers, together with a taste of the international character of Singapore, enjoying its modern architectures that are combined with traditions such as harmony between man and nature.
